

Culture of Respect Collective: Campus Readiness Assessment

Is your institution ready to be part of the Collective? Use this brief assessment to find out.

The Culture of Respective Collective is a campus mobilization program that guides institutional stakeholders through a step-by-step strategic assessment and planning process to improve campus sexual violence prevention and response. Successful participation in the Collective requires a significant investment of personnel time; institutional buy-in; and a commitment to building a Culture of Respect on your campus.

Are senior-level administrators at your institution:			Will your institution form a Campus Leadership Team (CLT) that will:

Willing to dedicate & augment, as necessary, campus resources towards this effort?	Yes	No	Prioritize meeting monthly to accomplish their goals?	Yes	No
Will your institution commit to:			Administer a rigorous self-assessment at the beginning and end of the program?	Yes	No
A two year program to address sexual violence on campus that works towards creating a Culture of Respect?	Yes	No	Draft and implement a comprehensive plan to strengthen efforts to address sexual violence?	Yes	No
Identifying least one staff member to spearhead efforts for the Collective from an office whose mandate includes sexual violence prevention or response?	Yes	No	Engage in professional development to increase their knowledge and skills related to sexual violence prevention and response?	Yes	No
Ensuring this staff member can dedicate a minimum of five hours per week to program implementation?	Yes	No	Challenge and change existing practices and procedures to better align with best practices, guidance, and emerging evidence?	Yes	No
Identifying two to three additional team members to support participation in the Collective?	Yes	No

Thank you for taking a few moments to answer these questions. There are no “right” or “wrong” answers, and an institution need not answer “yes” to every question to be a good fit. However, it has been our experience through our 14-institution Pilot Program and our first Collective cohort of 50+ institutions that those who can answer “yes” to most of the questions above are well-positioned to join the program and enact meaningful change on their campuses. If you would like to review this screener with a Culture of Respect staff member or learn more about the Collective, please contact us to set up a call; we’d be happy to speak with you. We hope you will apply to be a part of our next Collective cohort (application available fall 2017) and we look forward to working with you to create a Culture of Respect!
